Parent-Teachers Association.

The first meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association in the new school year took place in the High School building last Friday evening.

The committee on Cigarette and Tobacco Selling to children reported that the law prohibiting the sale of cigarettes and tobacco to minors, any one under the age of 21 years and their recommended as follows:

"We beg to recommend to the association that copies of the act should be printed in convenient form and copies of the same be sent by the secretary of the association to the various dealers in cigarettes, doing business in Gettysburg, one copy for their own information and with the request that one of the copies sent them be posted in their place of business, and

"We further recommend that the dealers be requested to co-operate in the enforcement of these laws with the association and

"Further recommend that in any case 'cigarettes,' etc., are continued to be furnished to minors in Gettysburg, that the association take such action looking to the enforcement of the laws prohibiting the same as it may deem proper in the premises." The recommendations were enthusiastically received and accepted and the committee discharged.

A letter was read from officer of the Pennsylvania Congress of Mothers, which meets at Williamsport Oct. 5, 6 and 7, 1911, and requested delegates to be sent, one for every ten members.

Mrs. Will M. Seligman was elected to represent the association. The local association would be glad to have others volunteer to attend.

The entertainment of the meeting consisted of a piano solo by Mrs. J. B. Baker, a vocal solo by Miss Reba Miller, and Miss Helen Cope and Miss Annie Major read papers on "Where Parents Fail," and the "Teacher's Viewpoint," giving suggestions that that children do not give enough of time in the evening to their books, and from shows, parties, late hours come to school next day in a condition unfit for work.

Gettysburg's Postal Bank.

Gettysburg's Postal Bank opens next Friday, Sept. 22. The bank will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. Are you going to be the first or one of the first depositors?

The three banking institutions of this place have been sent papers to make out to the United States, giving bonds for any deposits made with them. If the three institutions execute the necessary papers the Postal Bank will divide up the sums equally with them.

Here is the chance for those who insist upon keeping money about them, around their waists, in their stockings, under the carpet, in the mattress, in the coffee pot, in a ten plate stove during the summer, as recently tried. A deposit in a Postal Bank can not be lost. The United States is back of every cent placed in a Postal Bank. People who take money out of circulation in this way have no idea how they can injure the business of the country. Every one should consider it his or her duty to keep all money in circulation for the benefit of business and every one, and savings can be so kept in banks and now in the Postal Bank without any risk of any kind whatever.

Took Auto Trip.

Joseph A. Eckenrode and family of New York arrived here on last Tuesday evening in his new automobile and left Wednesday morning taking with him his parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. This laudable custom should be perpetuated by the annual planting of trees, vines and shrubbery on the school grounds, along our highways, in public parks and wherever there is need of shade and beauty."

LINCOLN WAY SENTIMENT

THE ONLY APPROPRIATE MEMORIAL IS THE VERDICT.

Two Prominent Citizens of the Nation Give Recent Expression for the Way.

"The man who beautified Washington" is the title bestowed on W. R. Smith, curator of the United States Botanical Gardens, Washington, and a white haired Scotchman, 83 years old, recently said as to the Lincoln way:

"When the national pike from Washington to Gettysburg is completed," said he, "it should be lined with oaks. Tall and towering, things of strength and beauty, they are the proper border for a national pike."

"I would have a mile of white oaks, one of red, one of pin, one of Spanish, one of English oaks, and so on. But I should have nothing but oaks. The sight of a great tree always stirs the aesthetic nature in every man's breast. You know I am a peace man. I do not see any more reason for killing people nowadays than for eating them. We gave up eating one another many years ago and should give up killing."

The Cleveland "Plain Dealer" recently contained the following interview with Benjamin Briscoe, president of the United States Motor Co., on the Lincoln Way:

"The Lincoln Memorial Road Association" said Mr. Briscoe, "is rendering an excellent service in its advocacy of such a road. In studying the question how to express in the most fitting manner our appreciation of Lincoln's life work, I am forced to the conclusion that the memorial should be a great highway rather than a monument, statue, bridge, arch or any other structure. Even if we take from the question every argument or motive that might be prompted by the use of an automobile, or the ownership of one, disassociate it entirely from our national good roads movement and admit nothing but that which determines the fitness of the memorial, the road still seems to be the logical and inevitable choice."

"The reasons are sound, if not obvious. The greatest memorial the world has ever known is the Appian Way in Italy, built by Appius Claudius 313 years B. C. It was celebrated for its beautiful monuments, its temples and the sumptuous villas that arose on either side of it. Throughout the ages it has been called the 'Queen of Roads.'"

"The temples have fallen; the monuments have been destroyed; the villas are in ruins but, to-day, twenty-two centuries after Appius Claudius built it, the road is still in use, bearing the burdens of commerce and the name of its founder. What memorial could be more worthy—more enduring? What could give Appius Claudius such permanent fame?"

"Congress has decided that the Lincoln memorial shall be paid for by the United States government and a fund of $2,000,000 has been provided to cover the cost. A commission has been created to prepare plans and execute the work. The form of memorial most desired by the people undoubtedly will be adopted."

"A shaft should be excluded, because," continued Mr. Briscoe, "with such as the Washington monument it invites contrast. An equestrian, the statue should be rejected because Washington now has one-tenth of all equestrian statues in the world. An arch possibly would make a good feature of a general design, but of itself it would not be complete. An art gallery, a museum or any other building, however beautiful, would scarcely meet the requirement. To use any fixed or completed memorial would be to ignore the vital fact about his fame. For these reasons a great road seems to meet all the conditions of fitness."

"Lincoln went from the White House to Gettysburg to make an address which is on the tongue of every schoolboy and will be recited for a thousand years. Gettysburg is itself a memorial, a magnificent park on which $7,000,000 have been expended. It is seventy-two miles from Washington in a northerly direction and the suggestion of a splendid boulevard from the White House to this famous battleground seems most deserving."

"No particular engineering difficulties would be encountered. The country is rolling and offers fine landscape effects. The plan submitted by the Lincoln Road Association suggests a Road 200 feet wide with a greensward forty or fifty feet wide in the center and smooth highways on each side, forty or fifty feet wide, one to be used by swift moving vehicles like automobiles—the other for carriages and wagons."

"Electric railways could be built on each side. Horticultural development could be carried on to a high plane and by apportioning sections of the 'Lincoln Way' to individual states it would be possible for the people of all parts of the country to express their regard for Lincoln by developing their allotted portion in accordance with their taste and their means; all plans, however, being subject to the approval of the national commission created by Congress.

BIG COPPER SMELTER

Will Be Brought into County for the Charmian Mines.

Copper smelting seems to be an assured industry in the Blue Ridge mountains. Operation of a 175-ton smelter near Charmian is announced for November 1. Allentown, Pa., investors are behind the plan to make the famous Blue Ridge mountains as profitable as a mining center as they are as a boarding-house center. They have been at work developing their plans for a year or two, and it is said that they have mined 70,000 tons of ore, yielding 10 per cent. copper.

A 450-foot shaft has been sunk by these seekers after underground wealth, and 32 men are employed on the development, on which thousands of dollars have been spent. Gold and silver are also expected as products of the Blue mountain region, but the copper, which lies beneath the mountains near here is said to amount to many tons.

Attempts have been made heretofore to inaugurate mining operations in the Blue Mountain region, but they have resulted in failure, because the ore has never been found in paying quantities and no previous attempts has been made to erect a smelter.

That copper exists in the mountains here is no new discovery. When the Western Maryland was being built across the mountains to Hagerstown the natives found so much trouble in digging a cut through the tough copper-bearing rock that work on an all-Maryland line was abandoned and rights of way were obtained for a part of the road running through Pennsylvania on property then owned by former Mayor John L. Champan, of Baltimore and others. In the cellars of a few of the cottagers at Blue Ridge Summit near the abandoned route of the Western Maryland is to be found the same ridge of copper-bearing rock which baffled the railroad builders.

Five hundred acres of land are owned by the Allentown Company, and building material is arriving daily by railroad for the smelter. H. B. Baker, Waynesboro, has the contract for concrete work, and Frank Swoyer of Allentown is the chief engineer in charge of the operations.

Selling Bodies—Easy Money.

Here is a good one the city papers have printed about Dr. Allen J. Smith, Dean of the Medical Department of University of Pennsylvania, who has many friends in Gettysburg.

"This thing of getting $50 for my dead body looks like easy money to me. It will do me lots of good alive and after I'm dead I'm a goner, so what's the difference? My pal feels the same way about it."

The speaker was Harry Fisher and his pal is Walter Davis. They walked all the way from Tenth and York streets to the University of Pennsylvania Hospital today, where they heard a fellow could get a little change for a square meal.

When they reached the office of Dean Allen J. Smith they found him out, but they were informed that the professor is even more liberal than they supposed, and he would give each of them $50.

"When do we get it?" asked Fisher of a stenographer.

"Just as soon as you sign the release for your body after death."

"All right, let's have the papers, then."

"Pretty tough, this life," said Fisher. "We've been out of work ever since we hit Philly, and that fifty certainly does look good."

ACKNOWLEDGE IT.

Gettysburg Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove It.

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Gettysburg given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this:

Mrs. M. Ohler, Hanover St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I was troubled by weak and disordered kidneys for over a year. My back ached constantly and pains extended from my loins into my head. I had chills and dizzy spells and was bothered by irregular passages of the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended that I finally procured a box at the People's Drug Store and commenced their use. A few doses brought relief and after continuing the use of this remedy for a short time, all symptoms of my trouble had disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve my endorsement." (Statement given November 1, 1907.)

A WILLING CORROBORATION.

On January 3, 1910, when Mrs. Ohler was interviewed, she said: "I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again and confirm all I have previously said about them. This remedy should have a permanent place in every household."

Number One.

A JOINT RESOLUTION.

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, so as to consolidate the courts of common pleas of Allegheny County.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That section six of article five be amended, by striking out the said section, and inserting in place thereof the following:

Section 6. In the county of Philadelphia all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the district courts and courts of common pleas, subject to such changes as may be made by this Constitution or by law, shall be in Philadelphia vested in five distinct and separate courts of equal and coordinate jurisdiction, composed of three judges each. The said courts in Philadelphia shall be designated respectively as the court of common pleas number one, number two, number three, number four, and number five, but the number of said courts may be by law increased, from time to time, and shall be in like manner designated by successive numbers. The number of judges in any of said courts, or in any county where the establishment of an additional court may be authorized by law, may be increased, from time to time, and whenever such increase shall amount in the whole to three, such three judges shall compose a distinct and separate court as aforesaid, which shall be numbered as aforesaid. In Philadelphia all suits shall be instituted in the said courts of common pleas without designating the number of the said court, and the several courts shall distribute and apportion the business among them in such manner as shall be provided by rules of court, and each court, to which any suit shall be thus assigned, shall have exclusive jurisdiction thereof, subject to change of venue, as shall be provided by law.

In the county of Allegheny all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the several numbered courts of common pleas shall be vested in one court of common pleas, composed of all the judges in commission in said courts. Such jurisdiction and powers shall extend to all proceedings at law and in equity which shall have been instituted in the several numbered courts, and shall be subject to such changes as may be made by law, and subject to change of venue as provided by law. The president judge of said court shall be selected as provided by law. The number of judges in said court may be by law increased from time to time. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January succeeding its adoption.

A PAWNED WATCH

It Was at the Bottom of a Plot

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

"Goodby, Harold."

"Goodby, Alice."

These, and these alone, were the parting words between Harold Rothwell and Alice Swain, for their hearts were too full to say more. They were to have been married within a few months, but Rothwell had developed pulmonary trouble, and it was decided that he should go west and live an outdoor life. The prospect before them was gloomy. Even if Harold recovered his health the giving up of prospects he was leaving might keep him in poverty and necessitate their continued separation. He turned away and set out for the railway station. Alice watched him till he reached a bend in the road, when he turned and threw her a kiss. She returned it, and he passed out of sight. Sad as they were, they would have been far more so had they known what would happen before they should meet again.

That same day two years hence found Rothwell financial manager for Henry Palmer, a rancher, though not just appointed to the position. Rothwell had long been a sheep herder for Palmer, and the out of door life had completely cured him of his ailment. As soon as it was considered safe for him to lead a more confined life Palmer, who had taken a great fancy to him and who needed a clerk, put him in charge of the financial part of his ranching. Then Rothwell wrote to Alice Swain that within another year he hoped to return for her and bring her back with him.

The ranch was not a large one, and the owner and his clerk were the only two persons engaged upon it except a few herders, who were always away in care of the flocks. The men became very warm friends and were almost constantly together. One day Palmer said to his clerk:

"You know, Harold, that I am a bachelor and have no one in the world to leave what belongs to me. I'm going to make a will bequeathing this ranch and the stock on it to you."

Rothwell smiled. "Considering that you are but ten years older than I and far stronger, I think I would better leave my possessions, if I had any, to you."

"Furthermore," Palmer continued without noticing the comment, "there are five $1,000 bonds, which will also be yours. These bonds, together with some old family trinkets, I have placed in hiding, and I am going to show you where they are hidden. They, too, will go to you at my death."

He led the way to the attic and from a recess formed by a corner in the roof between two joists took a tin box, opened it and showed Rothwell the bonds and the trinkets referred to. The latter consisted of a gold watch bearing the initials H. P. and some articles of jewelry.

"You are very kind," said Rothwell, "to make me your heir; but, as I have said, I don't think there is the slightest chance of my ever receiving my inheritance."

"There is a better chance than you think," said the other.

Rothwell looked at him inquiringly, but received no further confidence. Palmer replaced the box, and the two men returned to the lower story. Then Palmer opened a safe kept on the premises, took out a will, showed Rothwell that it was in his favor, put it back and closed the safe door.

"Why," asked Rothwell, "don't you keep the bonds and the other things in the safe?"

"I have a special reason for not keeping the bonds there. As to the watch and jewels, it doesn't much matter where they are kept. Some day you may learn the reason. So long as I live I can trust you not to disturb the box in the garret, and after my death what it contains may be of some benefit other than for their intrinsic value."

"To whom?"

"That will appear at the time."

This was not very satisfactory, but Rothwell was obliged to be satisfied with it.

It was but a few weeks after this that Rothwell, having got in some funds for the sale of sheep, rode to the town, some dozen miles away, to deposit the money in bank. The day proved an eventful one. On the way two masked men sprang upon him from a wood beside the road and robbed him. Returning to the ranch, he found Palmer lying in the living room of the house with a bullet hole in his brain.

As soon as he had sufficiently recovered from the shock to think he determined to ride to the nearest ranch, get a messenger and send for the proper authorities to come and take legal action upon the matter. Within a few hours an officer of the law arrived and took charge of both the premises and the body.

When Rothwell had told him the whole story of his connection with Palmer, concluding with the statement that he was Palmer's heir, that he had started for the bank that day to deposit some $1,200, been robbed on the way and returned to find his benefactor murdered, the official looked at him curiously. Then he called a messenger and sent him off posthaste. When the messenger returned he brought the sheriff with him, who, without a word of explanation, clapped a pair of handcuffs on Rothwell's wrists. The prisoner was taken to town and lodged in jail, charged with the murder of Henry Palmer and the embezzlement of the funds he claimed he had intended to put in the bank.

The case was one of circumstantial evidence—or, rather, of motive—alone. It was assumed that Rothwell had got behind in his accounts, had embezzled the amount of which he claimed he had been robbed and, fearing that if detected he would lose his inheritance, had killed the man whose property he would inherit.

This made a strong case against him, and there was very little to be said in his favor. No trace of any one having attacked Palmer and no evidence of Rothwell's story that he had been robbed appeared. The court retained charge of Palmer's property, but allowed the legatee sufficient funds to pay a lawyer to defend him. His attorney did the best in his power for him, but was unable to establish his innocence. The jury hung for some time between murder in the first and second degree, but finally brought in a verdict of guilty of the former. He was sentenced to suffer the death penalty.

And so it was that Rothwell, having escaped death from tuberculosis, having reached a condition where he might bring his sweetheart to him as his wife, was doomed to suffer on the gallows for a crime he had not committed. There are not the delays in punishment for crime in new countries there are where the safeguards against infringing on the rights of accused persons are more strictly enforced. Rothwell was sentenced to be hanged a few weeks after his conviction. No new trial was granted, no stay of proceedings, and the day of doom was near when something happened.

A young woman stood looking in through the window of a pawnshop in the town where Rothwell was convicted. At the time an officer of the law dressed in plain clothes was in the shop interviewing the pawnbroker about some stolen goods that he had loaned money on. The woman entered the shop and produced a watch on which she asked for a loan. The broker inspected the watch and at once caught sight of two letters, "H. P." on the case.

"Whose initials are those?" asked the broker.

The woman said she did not know. The detective took a hand in questioning her and, her replies being contradictory, took her to police headquarters. There, after many surmises, some one noticed that "H. P." were the initials of Henry Palmer, for whose murder Rothwell was to be hanged in a few days. The chief of police put the woman through the "third degree" process, with the result of a confession that she had murdered Palmer.

Many were inclined to doubt that the confession was genuine. Had it not been for the fact that the woman had attempted to borrow money on a watch with Palmer's initials on it little attention would have been paid to her statement. She claimed to have been a discarded wife of Palmer's, and it was for this casting off that she had killed him. The watch was shown to Rothwell, and he told the police where he had seen it. This identified the woman with Palmer, she was charged with his murder, and Rothwell was released. He asked to see the person who stood in his place and was taken to her cell.

What was his amazement to recognize Alice Swain.

Before he had time to betray their relationship she gave him a look that put him on his guard. She then spoke to him as a stranger, telling him that if he could get permission to see her alone she would throw additional light on the murder. Permission was granted, and the two were left alone.

Not daring to embrace each other, they refrained. Alice talked about the murder, but, fearful of being overheard, said nothing to reveal the true situation. Meanwhile she scratched on a bit of paper:

This is a plan to save you. Luckily you wrote me of the tin box. I came, took the watch and pawned it to get arrested. Go away and I will convince them of my innocence.

It was agreed between them through the same medium that Harold should have a week before Alice revealed the trick. When the period had expired and he was safe in hiding she called for the lawyer who had defended him and told him how Rothwell had written her of the interview he had had with Palmer and of the tin box, showing him the letter—how she had gone to the hiding place, taken the watch and pawned it, knowing the man who was at the time with the pawnbroker to be a detective. The attorney soon obtained a dismissal of the charge against her, and later she was set at liberty.

She at once went to the ranch house and in her future husband's name claimed for him his inheritance. Making a more thorough examination of the contents of the tin box, she found a bit of paper on which were written the following words:

If I am murdered it will be by my old partner, Jacob Wilcox. When we separated I took some bonds that he claimed belonged to him. He told me then that he would have the bonds if he had to kill me to get them.

In time Rothwell came into his inheritance and married the girl who had saved him. He spent considerable money trying to find Wilcox and bring him to justice, but never succeeded. The Rothwell ranch is now one of the largest in that section of country.

Orchard Demonstration Sept. 20.

Prof. H. A. Surface, State Economic Zoologist, has announced the schedule for the holding of fall demonstrations on fruit raising and the care of trees in the model orchards of 11 counties in his section of Pennsylvania, including those to be held in Adams county. There will be but one meeting in Adams county—in George Oyler's orchard, near Arendtsville, September 20.

This schedule is along the program laid out by Prof. Surface each year. Three series of meetings are held annually. Two are held each spring for the treatment to prevent and kill San Jose scale and codling moth and the other in the fall to study the results of the earlier work. A majority of the counties have but one of the meetings, but in a few, such as Adams, two sessions have been arranged.

Ernest F. Peirce of York, state inspector of orchards for York and Adams counties, is engaged in a canvass and inspection of the orchards in his district and reports a majority to be in first class condition. He has visited a great many such places recently preparing the trees for the winter and seeing that everything is in readiness for the demonstrations that have been arranged. The results of the spraying and pruning of trees and the fertilization of the soil about the trees have been very gratifying in every locality and has demonstrated beyond a shadow of doubt the good that will follow a proper and intelligent procedure in the methods of caring for fruit bearing trees. Mr. Peirce reports many new trees having been planted in all sections.

In connection with his trips through his district, Inspector Peirce is telling the farmers and fruit growers about the big fruit exhibit from demonstration orchards to be given in connection with the annual meeting of the State Fruitgrowers' Association in Pittsburg next January. Prof. Surface has forwarded a letter containing suggestions and instructions to all of his inspectors and this is being shown the growers in order that they may be in touch with the situation.

The future apple show in Pennsylvania will attract thousands of people because of the display of apples by the carload lot. The day of displaying three or four well-formed and polished apples on a plate has gone by, according to Prof. Surface.

Heretofore, and even during the present season, county fairs contain in the horticultural exhibit these platesful of apples. While the long, nicely arranged rows of plates and their apples look very nice, Pennsylvania has recently stepped to the foreground in the matter of apple production and an effort will be made in the future to exhibit apples by the carload or the bushel, at the very least.

In his letter Prof. Surface says to Inspector Peirce:

"Now is also the time to get ready for the fruit exhibit from the demonstration orchards for the annual meeting of the State Fruitgrowers' Association to be held in Pittsburg next January. Our best growers will exhibit in carload lots. We cannot afford to show smaller lots than the bushel box containing apples of one variety. The apple plate is a thing of the past. Make preparations for getting your boxes of fruit now."

Hurt at Bittinger Quarries.

Two men are in the York hospital and two others under treatment at home as the result of an explosion at the Bittinger stone quarries, Tuesday, September 5th.

The accident through which the four men were injured occurred about 2 o'clock. Frank Warnick, a contractor for taking out stone at the quarry, was tamping a rock, preparatory to blasting, and it is assumed that a friction spark from the drill exploded the dynamite. Suddenly there was a deafening roar, the quarry walls were shaken and there was a fusillade of falling stone. Before the dust had been carried off by the wind, the moans from several throats were heard, and other employees who were at work rushed to the aid of the unfortunate quarrymen.

Mr. Warnick was hurled about ten feet in the air and thrown backwards over a 15 foot embankment. He received a charge of burning powder on his face and neck, and will probably lose the sight of the left eye. His right hand was lacerated and the left wrist and arm painfully burned. Mr. Warnick is about 40 years old, and has a large family of children.

Oscar Laughman, aged 17 years, who was assisting Mr. Warnick and close by when the explosion occurred, was also hurled in the air and struck on his face in landing, injuring his right eye, and suffering a contusion of the right cheek.

Calvin Laughman, aged 19 years, a brother of Oscar, was loading a car when the blast went off, and he was caught by the flying stone and pinched beneath a huge rock, which required three men to remove. The stone struck him on the right ankle, which soon became swollen and caused him to swoon. He was also cut on the head and terribly bruised on his left shoulder.

William Zink had two fingers of the left hand lacerated, also a flesh wound on the forearm and a number of bruises. It was deemed advisable to remove Mr. Warnick and Calvin Laughman to the York hospital for treatment.

AS USUALLY treated, a sprained ankle will disable a man for three or four weeks, but by applying Chamberlain's Liniment freely as soon as the injury is received, and observing the directions with each bottle, a cure can be effected in from two to four days. For sale by All Dealers.

Will highly appreciate your support and vote at the Primary Sept. 30.

WANTED!
5,000 voters to attend the coming primary Sept. 30 to take into consideration the name of T. Marshall Mehring who when aspiring for the same office in 1907 only lost 7 votes to the three competitors in his own township and had as many votes as any two in Gettysburg borough. In 1909 he was elected auditor in Cumberland township without opposition. We commend him to the voters of county.

Mr. Miller is a prominent Democrat of Mountjoy township, and will receive at the Primaries the vote of all Democrats who know him and are acquainted with his qualifications. He is worthy of the consideration of all democrats of the county.

N. B. SPRENKLE
of Adams County.

I was a Candidate for the Democratic nomination for the same office at the Primaries held in the spring of 1908, was defeated by only 86 votes and was next high candidate. This being my fifth announcement, I feel that I am entitled in all fairness, to the nomination at this time as our locality has not been represented in that direction for 41 years. Besides, I have at all times given my time and services in support of the Democratic Party.
Respectfully yours,
N. B. SPRENKLE.

E. P. WISOTZKEY
Democrat Candidate for County Treasurer

Public Office is public trust is personified in the life of E. P. WISOTZKEY.
Among the many candidates who are seeking the office of County Treasurer appears the name of Emanuel P. Wisotzkey, a resident of the 3rd ward, Gettysburg, where he has successfully conducted a grocery store for 33 years, on the corner of Washington and West High streets. He has reached his fifty-fourth year and has always been a well-known Democrat, but notwithstanding his politics he was elected at four different times a member of the town council in a ward that usually gives a Republican majority of sixty to eighty votes.
Many of the public improvements in Gettysburg are owing to the business sagacity and untiring devotion to duty on the part of Mr. Wisotzkey. For twenty-five years he has been a member of the Gettysburg Fire Department and for twelve years he has been Chief of that department, even unto this day.
A vote for Mr. Wisotzkey at the primaries on September 30th, will be highly appreciated.

Democratic Candidate

Mr. Sharets made the contest for the same office last year only after being advised that there was a vacancy and a Director was to be elected. He bore the expenses of a campaign and was elected by a highly complimentary vote, receiving more votes than any other candidate on ticket. Upon a contest this election was declared void. Not a cent of the expense of this contest fell on the County but Mr. Sharets as the loser was compelled to pay the entire bill, the Court expenses being over $50. He appeals now to the Democratic voters, after having made what proved to be a fruitless contest last year with its attending losses, to give him their support and votes for the nomination and election this year

I desire to call the attention of the Democratic voters of Adams county to E. H. Berkheimer, of Berwick borough, who is a candidate for Register and Recorder at the Democratic Primaries Sept. 30. I have known Mr. Berkheimer ever since he is a voter. He has always been a staunch Democrat. He is at present Tax Collector of said Borough, having been twice elected to said office in the last 6 years and in that office has acquitted himself to the satisfaction of the people of this Borough. While unable to perform manual labor yet being a good penman, he is fully competent to fill the office to which he aspires, and the Democrats of Adams county will make no mistake by supporting Mr. Berkheimer at the Primaries and if nominated I feel sure he will be a strong candidate before the people at the polls on Nov. 7.

To the Democratic Voters of Adams Co.
I was a Candidate for County Treasurer in 1908 and having the highest number of votes then of any candidate now in the field for that office, I come before you as a candidate for this office and kindly ask you support. I ask your consideration of fact that there is no older candidate than myself in the field for this office. I have been a Democrat all my life and have always supported the Democrat party. I have been in the Piano and Organ business for the last eighteen years, and have dealt with many of you, which I trust has been most satisfactory to all. I heartily thank you for any support you can give me. If I should make this nomination and election I assure you I will do all in my power to perform the duties of the office according to the law.

P. A. T. BOWER
Of Butler Twp.

THERE isn't a man in Adams county (Republican or Democrat) who can boast of a better home record than that enjoyed by P. A. T. Bower, of Butler township, and if a man is thought well of at home he has an introduction to the public of which he can well feel proud.
Mr. Bower was twice elected Justice of the Peace in that strong Republican township of Butler. At his second election he had a vote of 117 out of a total of 151 votes cast. There were two Republicans running against him at the time and Mr. Bower had but a party vote of 49 to start. This second election was an unusual endorsement of his first term as Justice.
Mr. Bower was also elected as a school director of that strongly Republican township, and when he was a candidate for County Auditor he received a home endorsement of 128 votes, when his party vote registered but about 60—evidence sufficiently convincing that the Democracy will win at the November election by the nomination of Mr. Bower on September 30th.
Some years ago Mr. Bower taught school in Mountpleasant township, which is given in evidence that he has the training to make one of the best of Prothonotaries. Since 1883 he has been engaged at bridge building, and is widely known all over Adams Co.
Mr. Bower has been a special pension agent for seven or eight years and has succeeded in getting pensions and increases for many Adams county veterans.

AUDITOR'S NOTICE

Vote for W. J. Chrismer
For Register and Recorder

I desire to ask the attention of all Democratic voters to W. J. CHRISMER, of Mt. Pleasant twp., who is a candidate for Register and Recorder at the Democratic Primaries Sept. 30. I have known Mr. Chrismer ever since he is a voter, he has always been a staunch Democrat, standing by his principles in the hour of defeat as well as in the hour of victory. He is at present one of the members of our school board and in that office has acquitted himself to the satisfaction of the people of this township, and this large Democratic township has had but one county officer in the last 25 years. Mr. Chrismer is fully competent to fill the office to which he aspires, in addition his honesty has never been doubted, being happily possessed of the requisites demanded by the party of those who aspire to office. The Democracy of Adams county will make no mistake by voting for Mr. Chrismer at the Primaries, and if nominated I am sure he will be a strong candidate before the people at the November election.

Vote for
S. McCLELLLEN EICHOLTZ
OF MENALLEN TOWNSHIP
For County Commissioner

FROM among the numerous candidates out for the nomination for County Commissioner, there is none more worthy the careful consideration of the Taxpayers than our esteemed neighbor, S. McClellen Eicholtz, of Menallen township. Sprung from rugged Scotch-Irish ancestors, he is possessed of those sterling qualities that peculiarly fit him for the office. This is made evident from the fact that only eleven years ago, together with his brother Charles, he started out upon borrowed capital, and in that comparatively short time, they have become possessed of one of the best farms in this locality, well stocked and equipped with all modern machinery, also one of the finest young orchards in this wonderful fruit belt. They own much of the most valuable timberland in this region, upon which they have a sawmill in more or less constant operation. All this is entirely free of encumbrances. This they have accomplished by dint of hard work, frugal habits and the application of strict business methods. This they have accumulated honestly. Their word is as good as their bond. They possess the unreserved confidence of this entire community.

This is the kind of timber the Taxpayer wants in the Commissioners office. In politics Mr. Eicholtz has always been a straight-forward Democrat, ever working for the welfare of his party. For this reason he is entitled to the recognition and support of the Democratic voters. He has never asked for office nor any other reward for his untiring efforts in behalf of his party, therefore, in view of his preeminent fitness from a business standpoint; in view of his unimpeachable integrity; in view of his unremitting efforts in behalf of his party, and in view of his staunch loyalty to party principles, we ask the Democratic voters to consider Mr. Eicholtz well at the Primaries on September 30th.

A FRIEND AND NEIGHBOR.

Clerk of the Courts
from Germany Twp.
To the Democratic Voters of Adams County.

THE primary election day is not far off and if you have not already pledged your vote to any candidate for Clerk of the Courts would you not be kind enough to consider the name of MERVIN WINTRODE (a man who is qualified in every way to discharge the duties of that office) and give him your vote and influence Sept. 30. Anything you do for him will be appreciated

W. I. OYLER
Of Gettysburg
Democratic Candidate for County Treasurer

He was born in Franklin twp., living there 22 years and has lived in Gettysburg 25 years, engaged in the coal and lime business. He has been a Democrat all his life and will highly appreciate all support and votes given him for the office of County Treasurer at the primaries on Sept. 30.

Strong Lower End Man
For County Commissioner
George L. Sneeringer
OF GERMANY TOWNSHIP

Mr. Sneeringer has been a farmer all his life, a successful farmer, first as a tenant and then on the Germany township farm he now owns. His life has been one of faithful attention to business, such a life as commends him to the Democratic voters for the office of County Commissioner, taking care of the property of the county and watching the interests of the tax-payer. If nominated and elected, Mr. Sneeringer promises a faithful performance of the duties of the office in the interest of the tax payers.

but only took her bed the day before her death. Miss Topper was a young lady of excellent qualities of mind and heart and she will be missed among a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Besides her parents, she is survived by the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Vincent J. Topper, of Hanover, and Misses Estelle and Fannie Topper, at home; Bernard F. Felix V., Hugh E. and Anthony Topper, all of McSherrytown. Funeral was on Monday, Sept. 18, mass of requiem in St. Mary's church, McSherrytown, at 9 o'clock, Rev. L. Aug. Reutter celebrant; interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

Hold Up at Bittinger.

John Rickrode, a well-known resident of Bittinger, was the victim of a "hold-up" near that place, but owing to the fact that he had but little coin in his pockets, the highwaymen were only slightly repaid for their trouble. Mr. Rickrode was walking along the track of the W. M. R. R., returning to his home between 10 and 11 o'clock. When opposite Lime Rock, near Bittinger, two men with hats pulled down over their faces, stepped in front of him. Rickrode asked what they wanted. One of them replied, "money." At this juncture Rickrode reached down for a stone, but instantly two revolvers were flashed in his face. When commanded to disgorge, Rickrode pulled six cents in change from one pocket and a quarter from the other. One of the men seized the 25-cent piece and departed, allowing Rickrode to "keep the change." Mr. Rickrode describes the men as of medium height, but owing to the darkness, the night being cloudy, he was unable to further identify them.

Two Suicides.

Hanover was shocked last Saturday by two suicides. Hamilton Y. Sprengle turned on the gas in kitchen of Arcadian Social Club in First National Bank Building in Centre Square and when found was dead. Despondency over ill health and suffering is believed to have caused the act. He had been teller at the Savings Fund Society for 16 years, retiring some years ago. He leaves two daughters and two sons, Mrs. Eldridge Downes of Baltimore, Miss Emma Sprengle at home, Arthur George, and Walter Y. of Pittsburgh.

Jesse Frysinger, the well known cigar manufacturer, the same day fired a bullet into his brain at his poultry farm near York Haven. Poor health is given as cause. He leaves a widow, one son, J. Frank, and a daughter, Miss Miriam.

Badly Burned.

John Merz of Biglerville was badly burned by an explosion of gas at his apple evaporating plant in that place Thursday evening. The gasoline engine was not working satisfactorily and Mr. Merz, taking a lighted lantern, went into the building where the gasoline pit is located. Suddenly the gas ignited and Mr. Merz was surrounded by flames. He was gotten out with difficulty. His face and hands were badly burned. His shoes were burned but his feet were not hurt. He is recovering though suffering considerable discomfort.

Native Honored.

The 90th anniversary of the birth of Rev. George Warren of Tyrone was celebrated this month in a very pleasant and unique way. Rev. Warren is a native of Gettysburg, a brother of the late Thomas Warren, and his wife was Louisa Bowen, a sister of the late Mrs. David Kendlehart. The celebration took place in the First Methodist Church of Tyrone, of which Rev. W. W. Hartman is pastor and of which Rev. Warren had been pastor.

After a service of singing and prayer the meeting was turned over to A. A. Stevens, Esq., who after congratulating Rev. Warren on his 90th birthday, introduced Rev. L. M. Gardner of York Springs, a conference classmate of Rev. Warren.

Rev. Gardner told of his own conversion at Gettysburg when Mr. Warren was a local preacher and how they were both recommended to the Annual Conference from Gettysburg and admitted in 1855. Those were days of long circuits and large revivals with preachers riding horse back.

Rev. Hinkle of York, another classmate, next spoke and District Superintendent B. H. Mosser of Huntingdon bore the greetings of his brethren in the ministry.

Rev. C. M. Karns, pastor of the Columbia Avenue Church of Tyrone, handed the guest a purse of $90, and Jacob A. Hoffman, on behalf of the First Methodist Church presented him with another purse of $90.

Rev. Warren was deeply touched and responded in his usual happy vein, telling of his early days.

A delightful reception and luncheon closed the celebration.

Property Sales.

Runk & Peckman have sold the Bender farm of 15 acres near the place to Charles A. Beck, who will take possession in October, and have also sold the John S. Wolf property in Biglerville to Frank Stahl.

R. E. Shearer of Carlisle has sold the Watson Sadler farm in Huntingdon township of 202 acres to Isaac L. Sadler at $60 an acre.

Geo. W. Dentler has sold his 124 acre farm in Butler township to his brother, J. A. Dentler, of Heifersburg for $4,000.

Mrs. C. E. Oyler of Biglerville has sold her house and lot on Penn street to Jacob Group, consideration $2,000 cash.

Bright Excursion Outlook.

Over 3000 people visited Gettysburg on last Sunday. There were four sections of a Pennsylvania Railroad excursion over the Western Maryland from along the lines of the former in central part of the State. Altogether 2844 visitors came by the W. M. R. R. and 400 by the Reading.

On Saturday evening about 75 members of the Sixth Pennsylvania Cavalry arrived for a three days' reunion, being the twenty-eighth time this organization has come to Gettysburg. The prospects are good for some very large crowds in the coming weeks.

Next Sunday, Sept. 24, there will be an excursion over the Pennsylvania, starting from Atlantic City with a fare of $3 from that place and $2 from Philadelphia, and hundreds of people are expected. The same day the Reading expects a large excursion from Reading.

On Sunday, Oct. 8, the Central Railroad of New Jersey runs its annual fall excursion to this place, starting at Newark, N. J., and a large crowd is looked for.

While official notice has not been received as to exact date of the Topton excursion yet it is thought that Saturday, Oct. 14, will be the day.

Sunday, Oct. 15, will bring the Glidden Automobile Tour. They leave New York on Saturday, Oct. 14 going as far as Philadelphia that day. The run on Sunday is as far as Gettysburg where they will spend the night.

When L. M. Buehler the enterprising druggist, first offered a 50 cent package of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half price, and guaranteed to return the money if it did not cure, he thought it probable from his experience with other medicines for these diseases that he would have a good many packages returned. But although he has sold hundreds of bottles, not one has been brought back.

To those suffering with dizziness, headache, poor digestion, constipation and straining, Dr. Howard's specific offers quick relief. It is an invaluable boon to all who feel uncomfortable after eating, and is today the popular dinner pill in all the large cities.

HOW TO SAVE FEED FOR STOCK

Whether the price of feed is high or low, the wise feeder tries to prevent waste. But when feed is as scarce and consequently as high in price as it is now and will be this fall and winter, even the most wasteful feeder tries to economize.

U. S. STOCK FOOD TONIC

has proven to thousands of our progressive and up-to-date stockmen that it is a feed saver. Besides keeping animals healthy and free from worms, it causes them to digest and assimilate from 15 to 25 per cent. more of the feed they eat—in other words, by adding a little U. S. Stock Food Tonic to their regular feed, you can keep them in better condition and feed from 15 to 25 per cent. less feed than you are in the habit of feeding. A trial will prove it to you, and it costs but a cent a day for a horse or cow.

The Climate Chaser.

From the Washington Star.
There's a strange elusive story that the summer always brings.
It complicates your travels like the song the siren sings.
You leave old Solidtown because the summer's rather hot.
As summers usually are in almost every spot.
You get a letter from a friend. It brings a hopeful thrill:
"We're sleeping under blankets here at Huckleberryville."
And so you hasten to that place and hear the natives say:
"The climate has been positively cold—until today."

Another message tells you that at Punktown each day
They have to build a fire to keep the chilly winds away.
But when you reach the station expectations disappear.
A warm wave has possession. It's the first one of the year.
You go to Sawbuck Corners and to Scruback on the Hill.
And hear the same old story told with sympathetic skill.
Then back to good old Solid town your weary steps are drawn,
And there you hear how cool the weather was while you were gone.

UN SOUNDNESS in a horse reduces its selling price materially upon the market. Assuming that a sound 1,800 pound draft horse sells for $300 on the Chicago horse market, having sight in one eye only he will sell for $250; when sight is gone from both eyes for $100. This and many other statements which might be made along the same line are borne out by the following table, compiled from data given by a man in position to be an authority on this subject, Mr. T. W. Bell, Union Stock-yards Horse exchange, Chicago, Ill.

Unsoundness Decreases Selling Price.

A common draft horse, weighing 1,800 pounds, perfectly sound and worth $300 on the market, is taken as the basis of comparison. The table shows the unsoundness he might have and the amount to which the selling price would be reduced by each particular unsoundness.

Sound	$300
One small bone spavin	250
Two small bone spavins	200
Two bad bone spavins	150
Curbs, same reductions as for bone spavins
One bog spavin	220
Two bog spavins	275
One blind eye	250
Two blind eyes	100

The same authority further states that splints away from the tendon, not causing lameness and blemishes such as slight wire marks, etc., do not actually lower the selling price, although the buyers try to bear it down where these are present. The table does not give anywhere near a complete list of unsoundness. It contains a few of the serious ones often found on horses coming to the market. The figures indicate the value of entire soundness in the horse going to the market.

This bone spavin on hock marked with arrow would reduce the selling price of this 1,800 pound draft gelding $50 to $75 on the Chicago horse market. A spavin on both hocks would reduce the price $100 to $150.

Weak Conformations Conceded to Be Hereditary.

Certain weak conformations are conceded by the best horsemen to be hereditary. Under strain weak hock joints develop curbs or spavins, upright pasterns worked continuously on hard pavements develop sidebones and ring-bones and navicular disease due to long continued concussion. A stallion with weak hocks gets weak hocked foals. A mare with straight pasterns produces foals with like defects. The unsoundness itself need not be present on the stallion or the mare. The weak conformation may be present and the stallion or mare never have been put to a severe strain or long continued work, and therefore the unsoundness will not have developed. The weak conformation of limb or body conducive to unsoundness will nevertheless be present in the foal. Instances where this is not true are so rare that the above statement has come to be a generally accepted fact.

Malconformations and unsoundness conceded to be hereditary in their nature are called breeding infirmities. They are weakly formed hocks predisposing to bone and bog spavins and curbs, short, upright pasterns predisposing to sidebone, ringbone and navicular disease; moon blindness and cataract, leading to ultimate blindness, heaves and broken wind.

Sound Breeding Stock Essential.

The above figures show the severely discounted price which must be accepted for unsound horses. In order that fewer unsound horses go from our farms to the horse markets it is essential that care be exercised in selecting stallions and brood mares. Sound sires and dams are indispensable in the production of foals that will remain sound until of marketable age. In many instances it may be the only recourse of the farmer to breed a mare having some slight hereditary unsoundness or malconformation. It seldom is his only alternative to breed to a stallion thus afflicted. Sound stallions, those at least free from breeding infirmities, are generally available if the farmer insists upon such.

Fistula of the withers, due to accident. Does not constitute a breeding infirmity.

With the unsoundness largely eliminated, the market prices of horses would rise very materially. Buyers of horses are willing to meet the producer and pay extra money for soundness and proper conformation. In some other lines of agricultural production the buyer either does not co-operate with the producer or openly discourages any effort at improvement that would mean increased cost to him. Not so with horse buyers. Sound horses top the market every time they are offered. Unsound horses are severely discriminated against and sales are slow. It is possible to control this serious question of unsoundness in a large measure by wise selection of breeding stock.

Why not Cook with Gas

Don't you know your house would be many degrees cooler if you used a gas stove, and all the home people that much more comfortable.

Gas cooks faster than other fuel, hence less length of heat. A match gives the gas in full force, and cooking done, a turn of the knob removes the heat.

An economical use of gas will result in lower bills than paid for any other fuel and that means the saving of money, heat, fuel carrying and removal of ashes.
